No request shall be accepted telephonically nor shall any information be supplied telephonically. Only the Information Officer or any Deputy Information Office appointed shall have the mandate to disclose information in terms of this manual.

7 Procedure for requesting access to the above information

Records held by the company may be accessed on request only once the requirements for access have been met. A requester is any person making a request for access to a record of the company and in this regard, the Act distinguishes between two types of requesters:

□ Personal Requester

A personal requester is a requester who is seeking access to a record containing personal information about the requester. Subject to the provisions of the Act and applicable law, the company will provide the requested information, or give access to any record about the requester's personal information. The prescribed fee for reproduction of the information requested will be charged by the company.

□ Other Requester

This requester (other than a personal requester) is entitled to request access to information pertaining to third parties. However, the company is not obliged to grant access prior to the requester fulfilling the requirements for access in terms of the Act. The prescribed fee for reproduction of the information requested will be charged by the company.

□ Request Procedure

A requester must comply with all the procedural requirements contained in the PAI and POPI Acts relating to a request for access to a record. A requester must complete the request form enclosed herewith in Appendix 1 and submit it, as well as the payment of a request fee, if applicable to the information officer at the physical address, or electronic mail address as stated herein. The request form must be filled in with enough information to at least enable the information officer to identify:

- The record or records requested
- The identity of the requester
- What form of access is required
- The postal address or fax number of the requester.

A requester must state that he or she requires the information to exercise or protect a right, and clearly state what the nature of the right is, so to be exercised or protected. The requester must also provide an explanation of why the requested record is required for the exercise or protection of that right.

The company will process a request within 30 days, unless the requester has stated special reasons which would satisfy the information officer that circumstances dictate that this period not be complied with.

The requester shall be informed in writing whether access has been granted or denied. If, in addition, the requester requires the reasons for the decision in any other manner, he or she must state the way it is required. If a request is made on behalf of another person, the requester must then submit proof of the capacity in which the requester is making the request to the satisfaction of the information officer.

If an individual is unable to complete the prescribed form because of illiteracy or disability, such a person may make the request orally to the information officer.

□ Decision

The company will decide whether to grant or decline a request and give notice with reasons (if required) to that effect. The 30 day period within which the company has to decide whether to grant or refuse a request, may be extended for a further period of not more than 30 days if the request is for a large quantity of information, or the request requires a search for information that has been backed up or stored offsite and the information cannot reasonably be obtained within the original 30 day period. The information officer will notify the requester in writing should an extension be necessary.

8 Grounds for refusal of access to information

The company has the right to refuse access to information on legal grounds as set out in the POPI and PAI Acts which will mainly be on one or more of the following grounds:

- Mandatory protection of the privacy of a third party who is a natural person, including a deceased person, where such disclosure of Personal Information would be unreasonable.
- Mandatory protection of the commercial information of a third party, if the records contain:
 - Trade secrets of that third party
 - Financial, commercial, scientific, or technical information of the third party, the disclosure of which could likely cause harm to the financial or commercial interests of that third party; and/or
 - Information disclosed in confidence by a third party to the company, the disclosure of which could put that third party at a disadvantage in contractual or other negotiations or prejudice the third party in commercial competition
- Mandatory protection of confidential information of third parties if it is protected in terms of any agreement.
- Mandatory protection of the safety of individuals and the protection of property.
- Mandatory protection of records that would be regarded as privileged in legal proceedings.
- Protection of the commercial information of the company, which may include:
 - Trade secrets
 - Financial/commercial, scientific, or technical information, the disclosure of which could likely cause harm to the financial or commercial interests of the company.
 - Information which, if disclosed, could put the company at a disadvantage in contractual or other negotiations or prejudice the company in commercial competition; and/or
- Computer programs which are owned by the company, and which are protected by copyright and intellectual property laws.
- Mandatory protection of research information of the company or a third party, if such disclosure would place the research or the researcher at a serious disadvantage.
- Requests for Records that are clearly frivolous or vexatious, or which involve an unreasonable diversion of resources.

9 Remedies available to the requester upon refusal of a request for access of PAIA

□ Internal remedies

The company does not have an internal appeal procedure. As such, the decision made by the Information Officer is final, and requesters will have to exercise such external remedies at their disposal if a request for access is refused and the requester is not satisfied with the response provided by the Information.

- External remedies
In accordance with sections 56(3) (c) and 78 of PAIA, a requester may apply to a court for relief within 180 days of notification of the decision for appropriate relief.

10 Fees

The Act provides for two types of fees:

Fees can be scrutinised in Appendix 2.

A request fee, (which will be a standard fee) and an access fee, which must be calculated by considering reproduction costs, search and preparation time and cost, as well as postal costs where applicable. When a request is received by the Information Officer of the company, the Information Officer shall by notice require the requester, other than a personal requester, to pay the prescribed request fee, if any, before further processing of the request can take place. If a search for the information is necessary and the preparation and disclosure of the information for disclosure, requires more time than prescribed in the regulations for this purpose, the Information Officer shall notify the requester to pay as a deposit if the request is granted.

The Information Officer shall withhold information until the requester has paid the fee or fees indicated. A requester, whose request for access to information has been granted, must pay an access fee reproduction, for search, preparation, and for any time in excess of the prescribed hours to prepare the information for disclosure including making arrangements to make it available in the request form. If a deposit has been paid in respect of a request for access, which is refused, then the Information Officer shall repay the deposit to the requester.
